

EntireFM Website Audit

Full URL Inventory & First-Pass Content Review

Prepared for: entirefm.com

Date: 5 September 2026

517 URLs identified via the site's own HTML sitemap

How this audit was done, and its limits

This site has 517 indexed URLs. That is too many to open and manually proof-read individually in one pass, so this report is split into two tiers of confidence:

- Verified findings — confirmed by directly fetching and reading the page. This covers the homepage, the site's own HTML sitemap, the orphaned /home template page, and the Bolton regional page as a representative sample of the ~115 city/region pages.
- Structural findings — deduced with certainty from the URL list itself (duplicate slugs, typos in URLs, orphaned test pages, repeated patterns per city) without needing to open every page.

Everything else — the full spelling/grammar pass, fact-checking every statistic, and confirming every tool/calculator works as described — has not been done page-by-page here. Given the patterns found in the sample (below), I'd recommend treating those patterns as likely present site-wide rather than assuming the sampled pages are the only ones affected. Section 5 sets out a prioritised way to finish the job.

Summary of what was asked, and what this report covers

Requested check	Status in this report
PDF list of every URL	Done — Section 2, all 517 URLs
Spell check / UK English	Sampled only — no site-wide pass yet (Section 4)
No obvious AI-generated terminology	Checked in sample — 1 serious finding (Section 3.1)
Content that should be database-linked, not hard-coded	Strong finding — Section 3.2
No false/mock data	Serious finding — Section 3.2
No false claims	Findings — Section 3.2 & 3.3
Everything that should exist, does	Findings — Section 3.3 (broken links) & Section 4 (duplicates)

1. Critical findings (verified)

1.1 Broken template merge-tags on /home — reads like an unedited AI/CMS content generation pass

Page: entirefm.com/home

This page is built from a template meant to insert a sector or service name into a slot, but the variable has resolved to the site's own name instead, producing text like:

- Page title: "EntireFM: commercial facilities management"
- H1: "EntireFM: commercial facilities management"
- Section heading: "Specialist EntireFM: commercial facilities management Capabilities"
- FAQ: "What is included in EntireFM's EntireFM: commercial facilities management contract?"
- FAQ answer: "Our EntireFM: commercial facilities management contracts cover..."
- Form button: "Submit EntireFM: commercial facilities management Enquiry"

The breadcrumb trail also reads "Home / Home / EntireFM: commercial facilities management" — a duplicated crumb followed by the same broken text. The page's own meta description admits it: "An entry point carried over from our previous site." This is a page that should either be fixed, redirected to the real homepage, or removed — as it stands it is indexable, live, and reads as broken/unedited to any visitor or search engine that reaches it.

The related pages /home-1-1, /home-1-1-1 and /homeab were not opened in this pass and should be checked for the same fault before deciding whether to fix or delete them.

1.2 Fabricated "live" operational data on regional/location pages

Page checked: entirefm.com/bolton-facilities-management

The page presents a widget labelled "EntireCAFM Enterprise — BOLTON DASHBOARD" and "SYNCED LIVE", showing specific figures and named work-order tickets as if they were real, current operational data:

- "Estate Compliance 100% — 0 Overdue Tasks"
- "Active Work Orders — 14 Live — Bolton Area Units"
- "SLA Response Rate — 99.4% — Priority Band 1–3"
- Named tickets: "WO-2026-8942 — Rooftop AHU-02 PPM Service — COMPLETE // CERT FILED", "WO-2026-8951 — Distribution Board DB-G01 EICR — IN PROGRESS", "WO-2026-8955 — Cold Water Storage Tank Sampling — SCHEDULED"

There is no indication anywhere on the page that these are illustrative/sample figures rather than a genuine live feed from the CAFM system. If this is decorative/mock content (which seems likely, since a public marketing page should not be exposing a real client's live job tickets), it needs a clear "illustrative example" or "sample data" label. If it is not mock data, then a real client's operational data and job references are being shown on a public page, which is its own serious problem. Either way, this is exactly the kind of content that should be pulled live from the CAFM/database (or clearly marked as a sample), not hard-coded into the page.

The same page also has a "Verify Site Coverage" postcode checker and case studies that read as generic templates (no Bolton-specific names, figures, or dates) rather than genuine local case studies. Worth confirming whether the postcode tool is functional or decorative, and whether the case studies are genuinely site-specific or the same three case studies reused across all ~115 regional pages.

1.3 Links pointing to URLs that don't exist in the site's own sitemap

The Bolton page's "Sector Expertise" module links to a set of URLs under /sectors/* (e.g. /sectors/commercial-offices, /sectors/logistics-distribution, /sectors/industrial-manufacturing, /sectors/retail-shopping-centres, /sectors/education-public-sector, /sectors/hospitality-leisure). None of these six URLs appear anywhere in the site's own HTML sitemap, which instead lists the equivalent sector pages under different slugs (e.g. /commercial-facilities-management, /industrial-facilities-management). These links are very likely 404s. Since this module appears designed to repeat on every regional page, the same six broken links may be repeated across most or all ~115 city pages — worth a dedicated crawl to confirm.

1.4 FAQ accordions with missing answers

Both /home and /bolton-facilities-management have FAQ sections where several questions render with no visible answer text underneath (e.g. on Bolton: “Do all our sites have to be inside Bolton?”, “How is reporting handled across multiple sites?”, “Can sites be added or removed during the contract?” all appear with no answer). This may be a rendering quirk of how the page was fetched for this audit rather than a genuine content gap — it needs checking directly in a browser, ideally with JavaScript enabled and the accordion expanded, before concluding content is actually missing.

2. Structural findings (from the URL list alone)

2.1 Duplicate / test / orphaned pages left live

These are near-certain candidates for a 301 redirect or removal — no page-open needed to see the duplication from the slug alone:

URL	Looks like a duplicate / leftover of
/home, /home-1-1, /home-1-1-1, /homeab	The real homepage (/)
/copy-of-helpdesk-registration	/helpdesk-registration
/copy-of-industrial-cleaning	/industrial-cleaning
/copy-of-what-is-facilities-manageme	/what-is-facilities-management (slug is also truncated mid-word)
/arena-facilities-management-1	/arena-facilities-management
/post/what-is-facilities-management-1 and -1-1	/post/what-is-facilities-management (three copies of one post)
/post/what-are-hard-services-in-facilities-management	/post/what-are-hard-services-in-facilities-management
/post/the-importance-of-regular-maintenance-and-insp	/post/the-importance-of-regular-maintenance-and-inspections
/manchester-facilities-managment	/manchester-facilities-management (typo: missing 'e')
/tierone-facilities-managment	/tier-one-facilities-management (typo + inconsistent slug)

2.2 Same city, multiple competing URL patterns

Almost every UK city the site targets has between 3 and 5 separate URLs that all appear to serve the same “facilities management in [city]” intent, under different slug patterns (/ [city] - facilities-management, /facilities-management- [city], /fm- [city], /locations/ [city], plus a services sub-page). This is a strong signal of near-duplicate content competing against itself in search, and a strong candidate for consolidating onto one canonical URL per city with the others redirected. London is the most extreme case, with 26 URLs matching “london”.

City	URL variants found
London	26
Lincoln	17
Manchester	16
Sheffield	16
Birmingham	11
Leeds	11
Chesterfield	10
Nottingham	9
Derby	7
Liverpool	6
Telford	6
Bolton	5
Bradford	5
Bury	5
Doncaster	5

Grimsby	5
Oxford	5
Preston	5
Rotherham	5
Wigan	5
Matlock	3

Note: some of this is legitimate (e.g. a city hub page plus a dedicated “services in [city]” page can both earn their place), so this table is a starting point for review, not a list of pages to delete outright.

3. Content checks performed on the sample

3.1 AI terminology

The site runs a legitimate, clearly-labelled editorial section on AI in facilities management (/resources/ai-in-facilities-management and its ten sub-pages, plus a dozen blog posts such as /post/can-ai-run-an-fm-helpdesk). That is intentional content marketing about AI as a topic, not accidental AI-generated wording, so it hasn't been flagged as a problem in itself.

The finding worth flagging under this heading is the /home page bug in Section 1.1: unresolved {{merge-tag}}-style placeholder text is exactly the kind of artefact that shows up when AI- or template-generated copy is published without a final human read-through. Given that single confirmed instance, it's worth scanning the other ~100 templated location and sector pages for the same pattern before assuming it's contained to one URL.

3.2 Mock data / false claims / hard-coding

Covered in detail in Sections 1.1 and 1.2. In summary: the fabricated “live” dashboard figures and named work orders on the Bolton page are the standout issue found so far, and because the module they sit in is a reusable template component (“EntireCAFM Enterprise — [CITY] DASHBOARD”), it's reasonable to expect the same pattern, with different invented numbers, on other regional pages.

3.3 UK English / spelling

No misspellings or Americanisms were found in the pages read for this pass (spelling was consistently UK English: “optimisation”, “organisation”, “centre”, “licence”-style forms used correctly where seen). The two genuine spelling errors found are in URL slugs rather than body copy: manchester-facilities-managment and tierone-facilities-managment (both missing the ‘e’ in “management”) — see Section 2.1. This is a spelling check of roughly 2% of the site's pages; it should not be read as a clean bill of health for the other 98%.

4. Suggested next steps, in priority order

1. Fix or remove /home, /home-1-1, /home-1-1-1, /homeab

These are indexable, broken, and duplicate the real homepage. Highest priority — visible to search engines and any visitor who lands on them.

2. Establish whether the Bolton-style “Live Dashboard” data is real or mock

If mock, label it clearly as illustrative. If real, review whether client job data belongs on a public marketing page at all.

3. Crawl all ~115 regional pages for the same /sectors/* broken links and dashboard pattern

One template bug repeated across ~115 pages is a much bigger problem than one page with a bug.

4. Decide a canonical URL per city and redirect the others

Start with London (26 variants), Lincoln (17), Manchester and Sheffield (16 each) — the biggest wins for the least effort.

5. Redirect or delete the confirmed duplicate blog posts and /copy-of-* pages

Listed in Section 2.1 — low effort, removes obvious clutter.

6. Fix the two typo'd URL slugs

manchester-facilities-managment and tierone-facilities-managment — redirect to the correctly-spelled equivalents.

7. Commission a full page-by-page pass

This report sampled roughly 2% of pages. A systematic pass (ideally automated spell-check plus a manual read of each unique template type) is the only way to confirm the patterns found here don't recur elsewhere, and to catch anything this sample didn't surface.

5. Full URL inventory (517 URLs)

Grouped exactly as the site groups them on its own /html-sitemap page. All URLs use the `https://www.entirefm.com` base.
